Are you making the right business decisions that will make money rather than lose money?

Better business decisions have to be made in the future not only to make a profit, but to even stay in business. This can be made easier with a better understanding of some financial standards of business such as what is expected in the real estate industry as it relates to how much money you need to spend on advertising, the office, agent supplies, etc. This short presentation explains the steps that must be followed to make better decisions faster.

Drexanne does it best.... Deemed a "Master Instructor" by CRB National, Drexanne comes to Hawaii to share her insights on business smarts and how to make your business profitable. Her home is Ohio where she is a real estate consultant that provides complete audits of real estate brokerage firms and suggests possible changes within the company to increase efficiency and productivity, with increased profitability as the ultimate goal. Drexanne holds an MBA degree from Xavier University in Cincinnati.
